James O'Neill will appear at the Tamme opera house, Tuesday evening of next week, in Dumsa' masterpiece, "Moute Cristo." Not unlike the proverbial brook, James O'Neill goes on presenting this ever popular play with unabated success. Like the brook, his performance is as sparkling and fresh as ever, and all the critical rocks, that at one time may have been thrown in his way, have been washed away by the excellence of the performance. Mr. O'Nelli can seen give the 4,000th production of his great presentation of "Monte Cristo." This season he is supported by the best company he over had,

THE INIMITABLE BURDETTE.

Robert J. Bordette, who will convulse all as Vegas at the opera house, this evening, sluded an Orric reporter at his botel, to-day, and was driven to this office by he reception committee in a carriage, renarking, after the proverbial exchange o reetings in a newspaper office:
